ANNUAL SCHOOL SAFETY REPORT & SECURITY
INFORMATION

FERPA

(Family Educational Right and Privacy Act of 1974)

What is FERPA?

Similar to laws protecting employment and medical records, FERPA protects the privacy of all “education records” maintained by schools that receive Federal Financial Aid.

Student Rights under FERPA

Students have the right to:

- Inspect and review their education records in a timely manner (within 45 days with written request)
- Amend records they believe are inaccurate or misleading
- Consent to disclosures of the personally identifiable information in their records
- File a complaint with the US Dept of Education if you feel your rights have been violated

Who can access student records without student consent:

- Parents of a dependent student – students under 18
- School officials with legitimate educational interests
- Schools in which a student seeks or intends to enroll
- To Federal, State, and local educational authorities conducting an audit, evaluation, or enforcement of education programs
- Requests in connection with financial aid, such as a college loan
- Organizations conducting studies on behalf of schools
- A judicial order or subpoena (reasonable effort to notify)
- Cases involving a health or safety emergency
- State and local officials in connection with serving the student under the juvenile justice system.

Directory Information

Schools may disclose this type of information without the written consent of the student. However, the student can exercise the option to restrict the release of directory information by submitting a formal request to the school to limit disclosure.

- Name;
- Student identification number;
- Address;
- Dates of Attendance;
- Phone number and email address;
- Degree(s) awarded;
- Enrollment status;
- Major field of study.

Non-directory Information (PROTECTED INFORMATION)

Non-directory information must not be released to anyone, including parents of the student, without the prior written consent of the student.

- Social security numbers;
- Race, ethnicity, and/or nationality;
- Gender
- Transcripts; grade reports

Phagans requires a written request to have transcripts sent to any third party as the privilege of privacy of this information is held by the student under FERPA.

Emergency Notifications, Timely Warnings and Evacuation Procedures

At Phagans School of Hair Design the safety of our students and employees is our highest concern. In the event of hazardous weather or other emergencies Phagans will notify staff and students of any school schedule changes, school closures or emergency information.

While you are at school and in the event of an emergency or routine fire drill, please follow this procedure:

- 1. Dial 911 in an emergency
- 2. Dial Mall security at 503 653-6962 if needed
- 3. Remain calm
- 4. Walk, don't run. Do not attempt to retrieve your belongings
- 5. Exit through the nearest exit door to the outside and proceed on the sidewalk South of Phagans past Dave & Buster's restaurant and wait for instructions.
- 6. If you are with a client, help them with their evacuation. If you are performing a chemical service, request assistance from an instructor.

While you are off campus and in the event of an emergency, hazardous weather, school schedule changes or closures Phagans will notify staff and students via the following sources:

- 1. Phagan's Facebook page
- 2. Phagan's website – www.Phagans.com.
- 3. Television and local radio stations.
- 4. Recorded phone message on the school's main number 503 652-2668.

Happy Valley location:

Upon exiting the building, assemble for roll call past Dave & Buster's restaurant located south of Phagans. Do not enter the school until a staff member notifies you that it is safe to do so.

In some cases, it may be necessary to assemble in another location or stay in the building depending on the nature of the emergency. Should a situation arise that may threaten the safety of our students and staff, you will be notified of alternative locations or emergency plans as needed.

Emergency drills will be conducted periodically. Please contact the Compliance Officer with any questions or concerns at 503 652-2668 ext 681.

Annual School Safety Report & Security Information

Phagans School of Hair Design is committed to the safety and security of our students and staff. In compliance with the “Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act” we are required to prepare and distribute our safety and security policies and statistics annually.

Should you witness a crime or if you are a victim of a crime, please contact the police if necessary and when it is safe to do so. Dial 911 to report an emergency. To report a crime, emergency, harassment, or bullying at school please notify the School Owner or the Compliance Officer immediately. If they are unavailable please notify an available staff member for assistance.

Phagans School of Hair Design encourages students and staff to report any crime or emergency to School Owner and/or the Compliance Officer and local law enforcement when the victim of such crime elects or is unable to make such a report.

When Phagans School of Hair Design receives notice that a crime or qualifying incident may have occurred at school we will follow our standard procedure to investigate and protect the confidentiality of our students, employees and the standard of evidence when ever possible. However, the information and/incidents disclosed in confidence to employees may be required to be reported (including personally identifying details) to the Compliance Officer and law enforcement personnel if required.

To ensure the accurate and prompt reporting of all crimes or incidents, authorized school personnel may take a written statement from involved parties and witnesses for a reported emergency or qualifying incident. The written statements may be included as part of a written report and such statements may be used by authorized staff and local/state enforcement authorities for the purpose of any criminal apprehension and/or crime prevention. We may conduct private interviews as part of the investigation. Criminal incidents may also be reviewed by the institution’s administrative staff for the purpose of disciplinary action. School investigations are separate from any investigations that may be conducted by law enforcement. Please see our catalog for more information or contact the School Owner and/or the Compliance Officer.

On March 7, 2013, President Obama signed the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013. In 2014, amendments were published and final regulations went into effect July 1, 2015. This Act requires eligible educational institutions to compile additional statistics for reported incidents of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking specifically. Such statistics shall not identify victims of crimes or persons accused of crimes. In some cases, a reported incident may be removed from our statistics and deemed as “unfounded” by law enforcement officials or by authorized administrative personnel.

Phagans School of Hair Design prohibits the crimes of dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. Phagans School of Hair Design takes all reported incidents seriously and will follow school guidelines in the investigation and protection of victim confidentiality whenever possible to the extent permissible by law. Phagans School of Hair Design encourages victims or witnesses to report crimes on a voluntary and confidential basis. When the school receives notice of conduct which appears to be sexual harassment, dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking we will follow our standard procedure to promptly investigate in a prompt, fair and impartial manner.

We will protect the rights and confidentiality of the accuser and the accused whenever possible. We will protect the standard of evidence that may be used during any official misconduct proceeding that may arise from an investigation. If it is determined that inappropriate conduct has been engaged in, appropriate action will be taken immediately using the school's standard procedures. Such actions may range from counseling to termination of employment or enrollment and/or other actions taken by law enforcement if necessary. If applicable, the accuser and the accused will receive simultaneous written notification of any official meetings, proceedings (hearings whether formal or informal) results (conclusions or final report) or appeal procedures.

The Department of Education chose not to define "Consent" for Violence Against Women Act purposes. However, at a minimum schools recognize that consent is a voluntary agreement to engage in sexual activity; someone who is incapacitated cannot consent; past consent does not imply future consent; silence or an absence of resistance does not imply consent; consent to engage in sexual activity with one person does not imply consent to engage in sexual activity with another; consent can be withdrawn at any time; and coercion, force, or threat of either invalidates consent.

Phagans School of Hair Design prohibits any form of discrimination or threat to any individual's safety based on race, gender, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, ethnic origin, gender identity, ethnicity or disability. Phagans School of Hair Design prohibits any form of retaliation, intimidation, threats, coercion, or discrimination against any individual for exercising their rights or responsibilities under these provisions.

Phagans School of Hair Design's primary awareness and prevention programs to prevent domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking, harassment and bullying and to inform about safe and positive options for bystander intervention and risk reduction consist of written resources of where to get help and this information is available to all students and employees. We inform all current and new students and staff of our policies and information during orientation, annual notifications, posted information in student and staff areas, through periodic classes and distributed information during the school year. Any student or employee who reports being a victim of dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking is provided with resources and a written explanation of their rights and options, regardless of whether the offense occurred on campus.

The information provided includes where to find counseling, health, mental health, victim advocacy, legal assistance, visa and immigration assistance, student financial aid if available, and other services available for victims. We will work with students or staff when necessary to assist in finding alternatives in changing academic, living, transportation and working situations, if requested by victims and if accommodations are reasonably available. We will attempt to assist victims regardless if they choose to report the crime to school authorities or local law enforcement.

Compliance with the above listed provisions does not constitute a violation of section 444 of the General Education Provisions Act (20 U.S.C 1232g), commonly known as the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA)

As required under section 170101(j) of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 (42 U.S.C. 14071(j)), you may obtain information regarding registered sex offenders in your area by contacting www.oregon.gov/osp.

For more information, please see our catalog and resource information or contact the School Owner and/or the Compliance Officer at the Happy Valley Campus at 503 652-2668 ext 681 or Marcy@phagans.edu.

BY FOLLOWING SOME BASIC SAFETY TIPS YOU MAY DECREASE YOUR CHANCES OF BEING A VICTIM OF CRIME...

1. Personal safety begins with you. When walking on campus, be aware of who and what is around you. Try not to walk alone and avoid streets and secluded pathways or alleyways.
2. Avoid walking alone at night.
3. When walking to your vehicle, have your keys in hand.
4. Do not carry large amounts of cash.
5. Keep your motor vehicle in good running condition. Always lock your car and remove any packages and valuables. Try to park in lighted areas.
6. Do not leave books or personal property unattended.
7. Have emergency contacts in your phone.
8. Use the "buddy system" and watch out for your neighbor. If you see something, say something.

Phagans School of Hair Design takes the safety of our staff, students and patrons very seriously. We will continue to promote a safe educational environment.

Drug and Alcohol Abuse Prevention Policy

Phagans School of Hair Design does not allow students or employees to be impaired, use, possess, distribute, or sell drugs and/or alcohol before or during school hours.

The US Department of Education requires all participating postsecondary institutions to establish a Drug and Alcohol Policy. In accordance with the guidelines set forth in the "Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988" (PL 101-690) and the "Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989" (PL 101-226) Phagans is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment to all students, staff and patrons. Pursuant to Federal Rules and Regulations, Phagans has adopted and strictly enforces our policy regarding the use, possession, distribution, or selling of drugs and/or alcohol on school property.

Phagans is concerned about Drug and Alcohol use as it adversely affects employees and students and the ability to perform required tasks. The use of alcohol and/or drugs diminishes public safety and compromises the quality of services offered. Working in a career that consists of working with caustic chemicals and sharp implements requires students and staff to be alert and aware.

Some medications are prescribed and some drugs are legal (including pain killers, medical marijuana, and methadone maintenance) and some have been known to have side effects that can hinder student and staff performance. With the recent passage of Measure 91 and Oregon's Medical Marijuana Act, Phagans' policy remains in effect and unchanged. Although Measure 91 allows recreational marijuana use in Oregon Phagans does not allow employees or students to be impaired, use, possess, distribute, or sell marijuana on campus. Phagans' policy also applies to prescription drugs that can alter the ability to perform required hands-on tasks.

Phagans recognizes alcoholism and/or drug abuse as an illness or disorder and Phagans offers resources for help, but it is up to the employee or student to seek help. We strongly encourage you to seek additional information or seek treatment if you need it. We offer confidential assistance to employees or students seeking treatment. Please see the Director of Education or Compliance Officer for more information.

Drugs and/or alcoholism can cause serious health problems, some of the effects may include:

Drowsiness	Convulsions
Slurred Speech	Coma
Hallucinations	Overdose
Disoriented Behavior	Death

If an employee or student does not seek help and the problem in some way comes to the attention of the school, then disciplinary action may result. Phagans may impose sanctions on employees or students for violations of these standards of conduct. Disciplinary action can include any of the following:

Dismissed for the day	Suspension
Written Warning	Termination

Although Phagans has the above disciplinary policy, the school reserves the right to terminate anyone at any time depending on the nature of the violation and/or to protect the safety of our school. Phagans reserves the right to do random drug testing. Phagans will report criminal offenses and work with local law enforcement as required. In addition, there are numerous local, state, federal laws and legal sanctions which can be used to punish violators. Sanctions and penalties can range from fines, community service, suspensions, revocation and denial of driver's license, property seizure to imprisonment.

Also, a licensing board, commission, or agency may consider a criminal conviction or other conduct, if it relates to the licensed activity, when determining whether a person is fit to receive or hold a specific occupational license.

Thank you for abiding by Phagans Drug and Alcohol Abuse Prevention Policy.

ALCOHOL

Minor in Possession (MIP): The legal drinking age in Oregon is 21. If you are under 21, it is illegal for you to attempt to purchase, or to acquire alcoholic beverages; have personal possession of alcoholic beverages, including accepting any gift, or consuming alcohol that belongs to someone else; enter or attempt to enter any portion or licensed premises posted or otherwise identified as prohibited use by minors. Penalty: Fine of up to $250.

Minors under the age of 18 who are convicted of any crime involving the possession, use, or abuse of alcohol or controlled substances will lose their driver's license for one year for the first offense and two years for a second offense. Unlicensed minors who are convicted will lose their right to apply for a license for one year or until the age of 17, whichever is longer.

Identification: It is illegal to loan your ID to someone else;

attempt to use ID belonging to someone else or attempt to use falsified ID;
make a written statement of age that is false when applying for ID or in trying to enter a bar.

Penalty: Fine of up to $2,500 and up to one year in jail.

Furnishing to a Minor: It is illegal to furnish or make alcohol available to a minor in any fashion, including selling or collecting party donations. Parents or legal guardians may provide alcohol to their own minor children in a private residence. Penalty: First offense, fine of $350; second offense, fine of $1,000; third offense, fine of $1,000 and not less than 30 days in jail. These are minimum penalties that the judge cannot reduce. Maximum penalty is a fine of up to $2,500 and up to one year in jail.

Furnishing to an Intoxicated Person: A dispenser of alcohol, including the host or hostess of a party, may be sued if it is shown that excessive amounts were negligently served. If negligent abuse of alcohol is shown to have contributed to a criminal offense or accident, civil damages may be imposed upon the dispenser. Penalty: Maximum criminal penalty, $2,500 fine plus one year in jail. Civil penalties determined by court.

Driving Under the Influence of Intoxicants (DUII): You may be found guilty of DUII if you drive a vehicle while you have 0.08 percent or higher blood alcohol level shown by chemical analysis of your breath, blood, or saliva, or are demonstrably impaired by alcohol and/or another intoxicating drug. If you are arrested for DUII and refuse to take a breath test or fail it, your driver's license will be immediately seized and it will be suspended for one full year. Penalty: For first offense that does not involve injury to others, violator may apply for diversion from the courts to a counseling program or traffic safety school. Drivers under 21 years of age will lose their license for 90 days if found to have consumed any alcohol while driving, for one year if a test of blood alcohol level exceeds .08%. If tried and convicted, a first offense requires a minimum penalty of either 48 hours in jail or 80 hours of community service, plus up to $2,500 in fines, one year's suspended driver's license and mandated alcohol/drug evaluation and treatment or education. Second convictions result in loss of license for three years if committed within five years of the first DUII.

Open Container: Drinking alcohol or having an open bottle in a vehicle is prohibited. You must store any open containers of alcohol in the trunk or some other area not normally occupied by the driver or passengers. Penalty: Maximum fine of $250.

MARIJUANA

Delivery for Payment: Penalty: Up to 10 years in jail and up to $100,000 fine plus twice the value of any resulting gain of property or money.

Delivery not for Payment: Penalty: For less than one ounce, up to one year in jail and up to $2,500 fine; for less than 5 grams, fine of $500 to $1,000.

Possession: Penalty: For less than one ounce, fine of $500 to $1,000 plus twice the value of any resulting gain of property or money.

OTHER ILLEGAL DRUGS

Penalties for manufacture, distribution, or unlawful possession of illicit drugs are determined by the Controlled Substance Schedule.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT/SEXUAL VIOLENCE POLICY

This policy of Sexual Harassment/Sexual Violence applies to all Phagans School of Hair Design employees and students, including faculty and professional staff, and other staff and students.

Phagans School of Hair Design takes allegations of sexual harassment/violence seriously and will respond promptly to complaints. Where it is determined that such inappropriate conduct has occurred, the college will act promptly to eliminate the conduct.

Please note that while this policy sets forth the College's goals of promoting a workplace that is free of sexual harassment, the policy is not designed or intended to limit the College's authority to discipline or take remedial action for workplace conduct which is unacceptable, regardless of whether that conduct satisfies the definition of sexual harassment. The sexual harassment of students by College employees (faculty and staff) is also a violation of law and College policy and will be cause for disciplinary action.

The Equality Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), the legal definition for sexual harassment is this: sexual harassment means sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

- a) Submission to or rejection of such advances, requests or conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of employment or as a basis for employment decisions; or
- b) Such advances, requests or conduct have the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, humiliating or sexually offensive work environment.

Under these definitions, direct or implied requests by a supervisor for sexual favors in exchange for actual or promised job benefits such as favorable reviews, salary increases, promotions, increased benefits, or continued employment constitutes sexual harassment. For purposes of this policy, senior faculty may be considered to be in a supervisory relationship with junior faculty. Faculty of all ranks may also be in supervisory relationship with staff and students.

While it is not possible to list all of the circumstances that may constitute sexual harassment, the following are some examples of conduct if unwelcome, may constitute sexual harassment depending upon the totality of the circumstances, including the severity of the conduct:

- Unwelcome sexual advances – whether they involve physical touching or not;
- Sexual epithets, jokes, written or oral references to sexual conduct, gossip regarding one's sex life; comment on an individual's body, comment about an individual's sexual activity, deficiencies or prowess;

- Displaying sexually suggestive objects, pictures, cartoons;
- Unwelcome leering, whistling, brushing against the body, sexual gestures, suggestive or insulting comments;
- Inquiries into one's sexual experiences; and,
- Discussion of one's sexual activities.

All employees should take special note that, as stated above, retaliation against an individual who has complained about sexual harassment or who has cooperated with an investigation of a sexual harassment complaint is unlawful and will not be tolerated by the College.

Complaints of Sexual Harassment/Violence

If any employee or student believes that he or she has been subjected to sexual harassment, the employee or student has the right to make sure of all the established procedures of the College, including the filing of a complaint in writing.

If an employee or student wishes to file a complaint, he or she may do so by contacting Barbara Climaldi at 503-652-2668. Barbara Climaldi is also available to discuss any concerns an employee or student may have and to provide information about the College's policy on sexual harassment and its complaint procedures under the employee's applicable Handbook or the student's Catalog.

Sexual Harassment Investigation

When the College receives notice of conduct which appears to be sexual harassment, it will promptly investigate the allegation in a fair and expeditious manner. The investigation will be conducted in accordance with the College's customary procedure and in such a way as to maintain confidentiality to the extent practical under the circumstances and permissible by law. The investigation may, as appropriate, include private interviews with the person filing the complaint, with witnesses, and with the person alleged to have committed sexual harassment. When the investigation is completed, the person filing the complaint and the person alleged to have committed the conduct will be informed, to the extent appropriate, of the results of the investigation.

Appropriate Response/Disciplinary Action

If it is determined that inappropriate conduct has been engaged in by an employee or student, appropriate action will be taken immediately, using the College's established procedures, to fulfill its obligation under the law to promote an environment that is free of sexual harassment. Such action may range from counseling to termination of the employment or enrollment, and may include such other forms of disciplinary actions as appropriate under the College's procedures

Oregon Law:

Oregon law provides the following definitions with respect to crimes of sexual assault and consent:

ORS 163.355

Campus Safety and Security at Postsecondary Education Institutions

2024 Crime Statistics Survey

Phagans School of Hair Design is required by law to report certain criminal offenses to the Department of Education for campus safety reporting, which is then published to a website for students to review. The website is located at <http://ope.ed.gov/security/Search.asp>

You may also request to review the 2023 Campus Safety and Security Survey Statistics in the Financial Aid or Admission office. Please ask a staff member if you would like to review the survey.

Purpose of the Survey

The U.S. Department of Education is committed to assisting schools in providing a safe environment for students to learn and staff to work and to keep parents and students well informed about campus safety. Data collected in this survey will be published by the Office of Postsecondary Education on the OPE Campus Security Statistics Web-site located at <http://surveys.ope.ed.gov/security>. The survey was authorized by Congress with the 1998 amendment to the Higher Education Act of 1965 (HEA) to help potential college students and parents research criminal offenses on college campuses.

This survey is authorized by law (P.L. 103-382) in accordance with paragraph 668.46 of the Federal Register/Vol. 64, No. 210/Monday, November 1, 1999/Rules and Regulations.

Active Shooter / Active Threat: What You Can Do

An active shooter or active threat is an individual(s) actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area. Assailants may use firearms, knives, or even vehicles. In most cases, there is no pattern or method to their selection of victims.

The information below outlines strategies for prevention, preparedness, and response. These safety tips and guidelines are not all inclusive, but if understood, reviewed periodically, and trained when feasible, they can increase your chances of surviving.

Response

Since every incident varies, you should be flexible in determining which strategy works best in that specific situation. You must determine your best course of action. This should be based on your knowledge and assessment of the circumstances (e.g., proximity to the event, actions of the shooter, available escape options and your individual capacity).

Run or Evacuate:

Have an escape route planned

Leave your belongings behind.

Move rapidly and deliberately, utilizing chairs, desks, and other objects to conceal your movement and provide protection if necessary until you reach a safe place.

Depending on location, consider exiting through windows. Have someone watch the door as you get as many out the windows (ground floor) as calmly and quietly as possible.

Hide or Barricade:

If possible, lock the door. If the door has no lock and the door opens in, use heavy furniture or other items to barricade the door

If possible, darken the room

Be low and silent, including putting cell phones on quiet or vibrate

Fight:

Act aggressively and attempt to incapacitate the assailant

Find something to use as a weapon (chair, fire extinguisher, etc)

When the Police Arrive:

Remain calm and follow officers' instructions

Put down any items in your hands (i.e., bags, jackets)

Immediately raise hands and spread fingers

Keep hands visible at all times

Avoid quick movements toward officers such as attempting to hold on to them for safety

Avoid pointing, screaming or yelling

Do not stop to ask officers for help or direction when evacuating

Always notify the police department as soon as it is safe to do so. Call 911 when safe to do so.

ACTIVE SHOOTER EVENT

QUICK REFERENCE GUIDE

An "active shooter" is an individual who is engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area; in most cases, active shooters use firearms(s) and there is no pattern or method to their selection of victims.

- Victims are selected at random
- Event is unpredictable and evolves quickly
- Knowing what to do can save lives

ACTIVE SHOOTER EVENTS

When an Active Shooter is in your vicinity, you must be prepared both mentally and physically to deal with the situation.

You have three options:

1 RUN

- Have an escape route and plan in mind
- Leave your belongings behind
- Evacuate regardless of whether others agree to follow
- Help others escape, if possible
- Do not attempt to move the wounded
- Prevent others from entering an area where the active shooter may be
- Keep your hands visible
- Call 911 when you are safe

2 HIDE

- Hide in an area out of the shooter's view
- Lock door or block entry to your hiding place
- Silence your cell phone (including vibrate mode) and remain quiet

3 FIGHT

- Fight as a last resort and only when your life is in imminent danger
- Attempt to incapacitate the shooter
- Act with as much physical aggression as possible
- Improvise weapons or throw items at the active shooter
- Commit to your actions . . . your life depends on it

The first officers to arrive on scene will not stop to help the injured. Expect rescue teams to follow initial officers. These rescue teams will treat and remove injured.

Once you have reached a safe location, you will likely be held in that area by law enforcement until the situation is under control, and all witnesses have been identified and questioned. Do not leave the area until law enforcement authorities have instructed you to do so.

HOW TO RESPOND

WHEN AN ACTIVE SHOOTER IS IN YOUR VICINITY

1. RUN

- Have an escape route and plan in mind
- Leave your belongings behind
- Keep your hands visible

2. HIDE

- Hide in an area out of the shooter's view
- Block entry to your hiding place and lock the doors
- Silence your cell phone and/or pager

3. FIGHT

- As a last resort and only when your life is in imminent danger
- Attempt to incapacitate the shooter
- Act with physical aggression and throw items at the active shooter

HOW TO RESPOND

WHEN LAW ENFORCEMENT ARRIVES

- Remain calm and follow instructions
- Put down any items in your hands (i.e., bags, jackets)
- Raise hands and spread fingers
- Keep hands visible at all times
- Avoid quick movements toward officers such as holding on to them for safety
- Avoid pointing, screaming or yelling
- Do not stop to ask officers for help or direction when evacuating

INFORMATION

YOU SHOULD PROVIDE TO LAW ENFORCEMENT OR 911 OPERATOR

- Location of the active shooter
- Number of shooters
- Physical description of shooters
- Number and type of weapons held by shooters
- Number of potential victims at the location

CALL 911 WHEN IT IS SAFE TO DO SO

COPING

WITH AN ACTIVE SHOOTER SITUATION

- Be aware of your environment and any possible dangers
- Take note of the two nearest exits in any facility you visit
- If you are in an office, stay there and secure the door
- Attempt to take the active shooter down as a last resort

PROFILE

OF AN ACTIVE SHOOTER

An active shooter is an individual actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area, typically through the use of firearms.

CHARACTERISTICS

OF AN ACTIVE SHOOTER SITUATION

- Victims are selected at random
- The event is unpredictable and evolves quickly
- Law enforcement is usually required to end an active shooter situation

TOGETHER

In 1985, neighbors opened homes and shared what they had to build a safer community for families – the beginning of Clackamas Women's Services. Our services have grown beyond shelter, and we offer a wide range of resources to anyone experiencing domestic and sexual violence, from initial crisis to long-term healing.

We work with community members, partner agencies, law enforcement, and other systems-based partners to build a community that supports and uplifts survivors of domestic and sexual violence.

Clackamas Women's Services helps individuals and families experiencing and healing from domestic and sexual violence, child and elder abuse, stalking, dating violence. We work with survivors currently experiencing violence to plan for their safety, as well as help to heal from trauma in the past. Our programs and services are free, confidential, available in multiple languages, and with any accommodations needed. Our support is available regardless of gender identification, sexual orientation, age, and immigration status to ensure anyone escaping violence can access the resources they deserve. We honor the depth and diversity of lived experiences across our community.

If you or someone you know is experiencing domestic or sexual violence, call our 24-hour Crisis and Support Line at (503) 654-2288 or (888) 654-2288.

Breaking the Isolation of Domestic and Sexual Violence

Reconnecting survivors with the safety and well-being they deserve

I was treated with nothing but kindness and respect. The staff were very supportive of me on my pathway to recovering from my situation. I honestly did not think I would be able to access help. I am so used to being set by the wayside and seeking help was scary as I thought it would be another closed door. My experience was quite the opposite and for that I can only express a deep gratitude. Thank you to everyone who worked with me. I will never forget it.

"Mary"

How can you tell if you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship?

Below are behaviors that abusive people often use. These may help you recognize if you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship.

Isolation

Preventing or making it difficult for you to see friends or relatives, monitoring phone calls, saying bad things about your friends or family, and controlling where you can and cannot go.

Abusing Trust

Lying, withholding information, cheating, being overly jealous, demanding your passwords, and monitoring your social media, email, or phone.

Breaking Promises

Not honoring agreements, not taking a fair share of responsibility, and refusing to help with childcare or housework.

Disrespect

Interrupting, changing topics, not listening or responding, twisting your words around, putting you down in front of other people, and not respecting your feelings, rights, opinions, or experiences.

Harassment

Making unwanted visits or calls, following you, checking up on you, embarrassing you in public, and refusing to leave when asked.

Abusing Authority

Always claiming to be right (insisting their statements are "the truth"), telling you what to do, making all the big decisions, and using false logic.

Financial Control

Making it difficult for you to work or go to school, interfering with your job, taking or refusing to give you access to money, guilt-tripping you into giving them money, controlling your finances, and taking your car keys or not letting you use the car.

Minimizing, Denying, and Blaming

Making light of abusive behavior and not taking your concerns about it seriously, saying the abuse didn't happen, shifting the responsibility for abusive behavior by saying it's your fault, and taking advantage of gaps in your memory or invalidating your experiences (gaslighting).

Threats

Threatening suicide or other forms of self-harm, threatening to report you to child welfare, ICE, or other social service agencies, threatening to harm or keep you from your kids/grandkids, threatening harm to pets, and physical intimidation.

Plan for your safety

People experiencing domestic and sexual violence are already highly skilled at planning for their (and their loved ones') safety. For support in thinking about some of these ideas, please call our 24-hour Crisis and Support Line at (503) 654-2288 or (888) 654-2288.

What are the warning signs?

What are signs you notice before the person who hurts you escalates their abusive behavior?

- What were some hints they would act that way?
- Did they give you the silent treatment?
- Set up no-win scenarios?
- Escalate near holidays or when you have more money or resources?

These are good to notice so you know when to practice parts of your safety plan in the future.

What's worked in the past?

What happens when things get bad? How have you responded when they have hurt you in the past? Think about what worked and what didn't work.

- Did fighting back help or not?
- Did calling the police help or not?
- Did asking the kids to go to a neighbor's help or not?
- Where have you gone where they don't harass you?
- Did suggesting your partner go out with friends help or not?

What's likely to happen?

Think about situations that are likely to happen with the person who has hurt you that you feel most nervous about. Plan for how you can respond to each of them. Is it likely this person will:

- Try to pick a fight with you?
- Yell at you or call you names?
- Approach you at school or work?
- Try to find you through social media?
- Ask your friends or relatives how to find you or give you messages?
- Ride the same bus route or look for your car?

Who are safe people?

Think about people you might be able to involve in your safety plan:

- Friends or family (consider people you haven't spoken to in a while)
- Your church or community members
- Neighbors

You may want to avoid sharing important safety information with people who are close to the person who hurt you.

What are their tactics that you should consider when planning for your safety?

Have they monitored your phone calls, or checked your call history or texts?

- Do they look at your email, social media, or internet history?
- Do they monitor your spending or not allow you to keep money?

What important items should you keep close?

If you are considering leaving, useful things to pack for you and your kids are:

- ID, debit/credit card, Social Security cards, birth certificates, and immigration documents
- School and medical records
- Medications
- Copies of divorce, custody, or protective orders
- List of important phone numbers
- Money and bank/property info
- Photos or sentimental items

While there are things you can do to keep yourself safe, you are NEVER responsible for someone's choice to be abusive or controlling.

How to Help Someone You Care About

Tips from RAINN

It's not always easy to know what to say when someone tells you they've been sexually assaulted, especially when that person is a family member, friend, or loved one. If you're looking for information on how to support a child, click here. Consider the following ways of showing support:

- Listen. Communicate without judgment.
- Be there. If the survivor seeks medical attention or plans to report, offer to be there. Your presence can offer the support they need.
- Offer support. Encourage the survivor to get support. Share resources like the National Sexual Assault Hotline and online.rainn.org, but realize that only they can make the decision to get help.
- Be patient. Remember, there is no timetable for recovering from trauma. Avoid putting pressure on them to engage in activities they aren't ready to do yet.
- Encourage self-care. Following an assault it is important to practice good self-care during this difficult time.

What to Do if You are Experiencing Domestic Abuse or Violence

Relationship violence, including physical, sexual, and psychological abuse affect millions of people each year. Domestic violence occurs when one person in a current or past relationship feels that they are entitled to control their partner or family member(s), and uses physical force and/or abusive language and behavior to gain or maintain that power. Abuse occurs regardless of a person's age, sex, gender, race, education, socio-economic level, culture and religion.

Abuse can, and usually does take many forms, making it difficult to identify. Frequently, one or more types of abuse and violence occur in a cycle, where the pattern of behavior of the abuser serves the purpose of intimidating and controlling another person. People who experience abuse often experience an array of feelings including:

- Wanting to end the abuse, but not the relationship.
- Feeling fearful, worried, helpless, depressed, isolated and embarrassed.
- Fearing judgment, stigmatization or rejection from others.
- Denying or minimizing abusive events.
- Withdrawing and isolating from friends and family.
- Feeling guilty, ashamed, responsible, or angry.
- Struggling with religious, cultural, or societal beliefs that reinforce staying in the relationship.
- Still loving the abuser and wanting to save the relationship.
- Feeling responsible for the abuse.
- Worrying about the health and safety of children and pets.
- Fearing poverty, homelessness, and not being able to care for children.

What to do if you need help

- If you are being threatened or are in immediate danger call 9-1-1.
- If possible, create a safety plan including a place to go, and people to contact in case of emergency. Plans are important because in a moment of crisis it may be difficult to think clearly or make logical safety decisions.
- Do not alert an abuser if you are planning to leave.

Tip Sheet: Firearm Safety in Domestic Violence Situations

The presence of a firearm in a domestic violence situation increases the likelihood of death by five to eight times. Has your partner:

- Threatened to use a firearm against you, your children, or family and friends?
- Threatened to use a firearm against a pet?
- Threatened to kill him/herself?
- Used a firearm as a threat to keep you from seeking help?

These are signs of escalated danger and it is strongly advised to seek support.

Please note: This tip sheet is meant to provide general guidance and information. Do not take any actions or follow any tips that make you feel unsafe.

“He’s never pointed it at me but he has laid it down on the table to say that I shouldn’t, [‘]cross the line[‘].”

“He threatened my five-year-old son that he would shoot the entire family and maybe others.”

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs):

Can I report my abuser and have their firearms and ammunition taken away?

- If your abuser has been convicted of qualifying misdemeanor crimes of domestic violence (MCDVs), they are prohibited under federal law from possessing a firearm.¹
- If your abuser has a qualifying protection order filed against them, they are prohibited under federal law from possessing or transporting a firearm or ammunition.^{2,3}

If I choose to report, where do I do that?

- If you or a loved one are in immediate danger: 911
- To report illegal firearms activity: 1-800-ATF-GUNS (1-800-283-4867)
- To report firearms theft, call the Firearms Theft Hotline: 1-888-930-9275
- Call your local police department using their non-emergency number
- Call your local domestic violence organization to be connected to a victim advocate

Can I get a restraining order and/or press charges?

You have the right to file a charge against your abuser for things such as threat or use of a deadly weapon, threatened or attempted homicide, threat of or actual rape, criminal assault, aggravated assault, harassment, stalking or interfering with child custody. Go to your local police station or call 911. If you press charges and firearms were involved in the abuse or violence, ask the police or prosecutor for help in having the firearms removed and getting the court to prohibit the abuser from obtaining any other firearms.

A protective order can help protect you immediately by legally keeping your partner from physically coming near you, harming you or harassing you, your children or your family members. This legal documentation to keep your abusive partner away from you can often contain provisions related to custody, finances and more. If you are concerned about your abuser's use or threatened use or possession of firearms, you can also ask the court to have law enforcement remove the firearms and prohibit the abuser from obtaining any other firearms.

Please note: a protective order cannot guarantee your safety, but it can be one step in an overall safety plan.

If the abuser possesses firearms and has been threatening or hurting you in any way, with or without the firearms, strongly consider letting a victim advocate or the police know. Domestic violence escalates over time, and an abuser can very quickly move from threats to actual use of a firearm. A victim advocate can help you make a plan for how to stay safe and how to safely report the existence of the firearms.

Where can I get an application to get a restraining order?

- Courthouses
- Women's shelters
- Volunteer legal services offices
- Some police stations

What information will I need for the FBI to conduct a background check for a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence (MCDV)?

- At least one of the following: defendant's (i.e. the abusive partner) social security number, driver's license number, address, or date of birth.
- Case or docket number of the MCDV
- If the defendant was an "intimate partner" of the victim
- Has the defendant been convicted of or pleaded guilty to a MCDV
- Did the defendant have the right to a jury
- Was the defendant represented by counsel
- If the defendant received notification of their conviction keeping them from possession of a firearm or ammunition.

For more legal information visit womenslaw.org.

In a Violence Policy Center study on cases where men murder women there were 239 women shot and killed by either their husband or intimate acquaintance during the course of an argument.

Nationwide, for homicides in which the weapon could be determined (1,458), more female homicides were committed with firearms (54 percent) than with any other weapon.

What can I do to prepare myself for an emergency situation?

- Safety planning is done best when it is specific to you and your situation. We strongly advise you seek out your local domestic violence organization or shelter to aid you in creating this plan.
- Important things to consider in making your safety plan:
 - Ensuring that law enforcement knows of any firearms prohibitions.
 - Finding friends and family members that can help you in this process.
- Make a list of the firearms your abusive partner possesses and whether they have ammunition, and keep the list in a safe place. This list can be helpful if you need to go to court or law enforcement to ask for help in having the firearms removed. However, if your abuser has access to your phone, computer, or other personal belongings, do not put yourself at further risk by writing this information down.
- Getting a protective order in many states can require that an abusive partner turn over their guns. Ask the court to do so, and also ask the court to do a follow up compliance review to make sure the abuser has actually turned in the firearms.
- If your partner is a convicted felon, anonymously let your partner's parole/probation officer know your partner has a gun.
- Familiarize yourself with First Aid techniques online or take a class through the Red Cross.

Safety Tips & Resources

When it comes to safety, there are some things individuals can do to help reduce risks and increase their sense of security. The following are steps all college students should keep in mind:

1 Consider taking a self-defense course.

Many campuses (or local community centers such as the YMCA) hold regular self-defense courses that emphasize awareness of one's surroundings as well as basic defense techniques.

2 Check in with family and friends.

Your friends and family don't need to know where you are or who you're with at all times, but if you're going out of town with friends or taking a solo trip somewhere—something different from your normal routine—it's always a good idea to let your loved ones know where you'll be and when you plan to come back. If you encounter any problems while away, they'll have an idea of where and how to reach you so they can help, if needed.

3 If you're alone, considering using a transportation service like UBER or other resource.

Know the contact information for the service and save it in your phone for easy access.

4 Carry a whistle or alarm, and pepper spray.

A whistle or phone app that acts as an alarm is a fast and loud way to signal help in case of emergency. Additionally, pepper spray can be purchased in discreet, portable containers – some that will even fit on your keychain – and can be used for personal self-defense.

5 Set your social media privacy settings.

It may be second nature to check-in on various social media platforms or to update your network with plans for the evening. It's one thing to let friends and family know these details, but if your accounts are open to the public, everyone can have access to this information. Take the time to adjust the privacy settings on all your social media accounts so that only those you trust know your information and whereabouts, and check these settings often—settings can sometimes change automatically whenever a platform incorporates new features or updates.

BE AWARE and BE PREPARED

Turning to Tech: Apps to Keep Students Safe

While students should be sure that all important emergency numbers are programmed into their phones, sometimes an extra level of precaution in the form of safety apps can give assurance and a sense of security on campus. These apps provide a number of resources and capabilities, are available cross-platform and are free to download.

bSafe (iOS and Android)

Assign “Guardians” from your contacts that will be able to monitor your progress home, and who will be alerted with your GPS location if the SOS button is activated. The app also allows the user to set an automated alarm, alerting your Guardians if you fail to check in after a set amount of time, and comes with a fake phone call functionality to help remove yourself from uncomfortable situations. bSafe also recently made all of its premium features free to users.

Circle of 6 U (iOS and Android)

Building off the success of the original Circle of 6 app, the U version has been created specifically with university students in mind. If you find yourself in an uncomfortable or risky situation, two taps on your phone will activate an alert to your circle, including your GPS location. The U version of the app includes campus-specific resources for students, with both phone numbers and links to a variety of hotlines and help centers local to them.

OnWatch (iOS and Android)

Designed for college students, OnWatch incorporates designated groups of friends with the ability to also call local and campus police simultaneously. With the “Watch my Back” function, you can program a timed session that will alert your emergency groups should you not respond to the alarm when the clock runs out.

React Mobile (iOS and Android)

Using a predetermined contact circle, React Mobile allows users to send out an emergency contact blast to the entire group – without having to first unlock the phone. The app also allows friends or family to virtually “walk” you home, keeping tabs on your progress using GPS technology.

Watch Over Me (iOS and Android)

Offering both free and subscription services, the concept behind Watch Over Me is simple: set a time frame and activity you’d like the app to “watch” you for, and periodically check in via a button to confirm your safety. Should the button hit zero without a check-in, your designated friends will be contacted, alerting them to your GPS location. The app also includes a one tap emergency contact button, and the ability to report witnessed crimes in the paid version.

If You're Being Stalked

What to do to ensure your safety and make it stop

Stalking can be a component of domestic violence, most often occurring after a survivor leaves an abusive partner. It's another form of control by an abuser and can also be used as a way to intimidate a partner. However, anyone can be stalked. You may not even know your stalker very well, but are sure that you're being stalked.

While getting an order of protection, or restraining order, against a stalker is a great place to start, there are other steps you should take to ensure your safety. These tips come from Safe Horizon, a New York domestic violence nonprofit and the largest victims' services agency in the U.S.

Safety Tips If You Think You're Being Stalked

If you are a domestic violence survivor and enter a shelter, make sure not to divulge the location of the shelter to anyone. These shelters rely on their confidential locations to keep all survivors safe. Don't text, email or call anyone with your location because your perpetrator could access that information and try to find you.

Whether in a shelter or some other location, change your normal route that you take to go home on a regular basis. Try to vary your routine all together—if you go to the gym at 6 p.m. every day, try going in the morning instead. Don't set up an easy pattern the stalker can follow.

Rent a P.O. box to keep your address confidential. Put this on your mail, checks and any other forms that ask for your address.

Save any packages, letters, messages or gifts your stalker sends you. They may be important evidence when you report your stalker to the police. Likewise, save all voicemails and texts from your stalker.

Become familiar with 24-hour stores or other public, highly populated areas in your neighborhood. If you feel like you're being followed, go to one of these and not to your home.

Let your friends, family, neighbors and place of employment know that you are being stalked so that your stalker can not get information about you from them. If you have a photo of your stalker, share this at the places you most frequent, such as your workplace or gym.

Do not hesitate to call 911 if you feel you're in danger.

If you aren't sure whether someone is stalking you, here are common behaviors to watch for, says survivor, domestic violence activist and blogger Amy Thomson:

- 1.Shadowing your computer sessions
- 2.Monitoring your email, either by force or by hacking into your account
- 3.Auditing calls and texts on cell and home phones by comparing them against online call details
- 4.Installing surveillance equipment in the home without your knowledge
- 5.Having a third party watch you while your stalker is out of the house
- 6.Having a third party watch/follow you while YOU are out of the house
- 7.Repeated calls at work (despite your requests to call only with important things)
- 8.Following you and watching you from a distance without your knowledge
- 9.Repeated unnecessary visits to your place of work
- 10.Calling you frequently to monitor your where-a-bouts
- 11.Having you call every time you leave and arrive home, work, school, etc.
- 12.Tracking you via GPS on your cell phone

Sexual Assault on Campus: Awareness, Safety, and Help

Sexual assault of college students remains a topic of considerable concern across the nation's campuses, particularly when it comes to how colleges handle sexual assault cases. According to the data above, sexual offenses are the second highest crime on college campuses, just behind burglaries. One in five students experience some form of sexual assault while attending college, according an April 2014 report by The White House Task Force to Protect Students from Sexual Assault. Another recent study found that less than one-third of students found responsible for sexual assault are expelled from college. But what exactly is considered "sexual assault" and what does one do if he or she becomes a victim of it?

Understanding Sexual Violence

Broadly speaking, the term sexual violence refers to any sexual act or activity committed against an individual without freely given consent. Both women and men can be victims of sexual violence. It is important to note that although such acts can happen in a number of different ways, this guide will focus only on the types of sexual violence that occur most among college students. Below is an overview of the different types of sexual violence most common on college campuses:

Sexual Harassment

This is defined as any unwanted sexual attention or advances from an individual or group and can be verbal and/or physical. The U.S. Equal Opportunity Commission reports that it's against the law to harass someone or make unwanted advances that are verbally hostile, suggestive, or demeaning because of their sex. Offenders and victims include both men and women. On campus, sexual harassment can occur in class, within college organizations, or at social activities.

Stalking

Stalking is defined as repeated and unwanted attention, contact, or harassment, particularly when it causes an individual to feel unsafe or fearful. This can happen with or without a person's knowledge. Examples include following a person, watching from a distance, waiting for someone at a certain location, or contacting a person's family and friends without permission. Stalking can also be done via repeated phone calls, social media messages, texts, and unwanted gifts. According to RAINN, the majority of stalking victims in the United States are between 18 and 24 years old.

Coercion

Any type of significant pressure used to force an individual to freely and willingly give consent. This often includes behavior such as threats or blackmail.

Sexual Assault

An umbrella term, sexual assault is any form of sexual contact or behavior that occurs without freely given consent of the recipient, man or woman. According to the U.S. Department of Justice, activities that fall under sexual assault include forced sexual intercourse, forcible sodomy, fondling, attempted rape, incest, and child molestation.

What to do if You have Been Sexually Assaulted

All sexual violence is punishable under federal, state, and local laws. In some cases, victims may fear reporting the crime for a number of personal reasons. Keep in mind, however, that reporting a sexual assault does not mean the victim must press charges. But failing to report the violence and pursue legal action has its own consequences, including the assailant continuing to assault other individuals. Survivors that report crimes may be eligible to receive financial support for medical treatment and counseling under the federal Victims of Crime Act (VOCA). There are also state victim compensation programs, but these often require that the crime be reported within 72 hours. Many college psychologists argue that reporting and pressing charges is a step towards regaining personal power and healing. Still, choosing to press charges is an individual choice.

In the short hours after a crime, whether a person wants to press charges or not, survivors should do all they can to preserve physical evidence for law enforcement. But before any of that happens, victims need to ensure their immediate safety and physical/emotional well-being. Below are some basic tips on what to do after a sexual assault:

Find a Safe and Secure Location

Following a sexual assault, the victim should go to a safe, secure location. These may include the campus police department, a dormitory, or a trusted friend's apartment.

Seek Medical Attention Immediately

After an assault, it is extremely important to receive a medical exam, even if there are no visible wounds, to test for STDs, pregnancy, or other health-related concerns. Victims can call the police, 911, or the National Sexual Assault Telephone Hotline (NSAT) at 800.656.HOPE (4673). Counselors offer immediate emotional support, including talking victims through what happened and offering free confidential guidance to local medical facilities and counseling. Students can receive care from local medical facilities recommended by NSAT hotline counselors or visit the campus health center or local hospital. Emergency rooms will still treat rape victims without collecting evidence at the student's request. Survivors who intend to report the rape and press charges should avoid bathing or showering until after they receive care. Sexual Assault Nurse Examiners (SANE) are professionals that conduct forensic exams to collect DNA with the victim's consent.

Get Support From Family, Friends, and/or Counselors

Survivors often report insomnia, headaches, panic attacks, and sometimes shame following a sexual assault. Talking to others can be a form of healing, but some students may need more than crisis counseling to work through their experiences. Campus counseling centers, college health centers, and community counseling organizations can be instrumental in supporting a student through the immediate aftermath of a sexual assault.

Talk to a Legal Professional or Administrator and Consider Legal Action

In most cases, victims can choose to submit a formal report and press charges through the police or they can pursue disciplinary action through their college or university. Victims should talk to a legal professional or college administrator to learn about the process and his or her options.
